INTRODUCTION

Nellie (Helen) North Converse Carr

Born Oct 1, 1878, Otsego County - Apr 24, 1968 Unadilla.

Married William Carr November 21, 1907.

William Carr (Sept 13, 1866 Wisconsin - Dec 24, 1941 Otego)

Both Nellie and William are buried in Flax Island Cemetery, Otego.

They had two children, Helen Francelia Carr Daniels (1909-2004?) and Norma Alice Carr Leonard Collins (March 30, 1912 - May 5, 2005).

Norma & Neil Leonard had two children, Alicia (Jun 29, 1929) & Rita (Dec 19, 1931)

Nellie Carr lived most of her life in Otsego County, primarily, Gilbertsville, Unadilla, Otego. During the 1889 period their home must have been near Cope's Corners. Oregon (Oregon Rd?) is mentioned. She went to Morris Training Class. She and her sister Carrie Carr Cope both taught school for several years before they were married. Carrie married Walter Cope.

The family moved to Norwich around 1902 and then back toward Gilbertsville by 1906. They lived near the Adelbert Leonard farm, River Rd. & Rt 3, as noted in her 1906 diary. She taught in the school house on River Rd near Route 3 owned Mr. Leonard was her superintendent. Later they became related by marriage as in 1928 his son Neil married her daughter, Norma. (My mother and father.AP).

During her marriage to William Carr they lived on Lobdell Rd just outside of Gilbertsville, a mile up the dirt road (then) from the Tillson's. In the early 1940s after the death of her husband, she moved to live part of the time with a cousin, Jessie Teed in Unadilla or with her daughter Helen in Otego. She lived her final years from the early 1950s with her daughter Norma and Norma's second husband, George Collins, in Sidney, NY, just across the river from Unadilla.

I began to copy the diaries of Gramma Carr in November 2016 and am in the process of copying other years which are now available. As of December 15, 2016 I have copied through the 1940's. I have tried to use the same format for each of the diaries to make them easier to read.

Although I have been able to understand most of the writing, I have used italics to indicate the few words that I did not recognize. I have dated each entry by day of the week because it helped to enhance the interpretation of her writing as many activities were carried out on specific days. I have added comments from my memory as I read these journals.

Comments about Copying Gramma's Diaries by Alicia Pagano:

Reading Gramma's writings I have begun to feel as if I am reading a novel (the novel of my own family) and I have had a difficult time putting it down. I want to transcribe "just one more month." I feel that my grandmother has bequeathed her memory to me.

I am impressed by the active social and economic community in which my grandmother lived. They were constantly "calling" on family members and neighbors, especially in Mt. Upton and Gilbertsville. Often they stayed for dinner (at noon) or supper. In the later years it was Unadilla, Otego, Oneonta and beyond. They went to churches in Mt Upton as well as in Gilbertsville when they lived there and in Unadilla and Otego later.

By connecting what was said as well as what was implied, I believe these diaries reflect not only the lives of my family and their community, but life in rural Otsego County and Upstate New York during these years. One is able to follow the transitions from horse and buggy and an expansive train and bus system to today's major reliance of private vehicles. The development of phones and electricity are noted as well and I remember some of these in my own life, for example, our first telephone. Barter and trading among neighbors is especially noted in the 1930s and early 1940s. Neighbor's helped each other in various ways. When there was a need, the neighbor's were present.

Through these diaries, I have gained a new understanding of and appreciation my family, and I am now connected to the vibrant history of my family. During my high school teen years I was very active in school, community and church and did not notice the many comings and goings of my family. After high school I went away to college, was married and lived in Germany, Ohio, Florida, Washington, DC. And finally New York City. I visited home briefly and always considered Unadilla my "home," but I never returned to live Upstate until I retired from New Jersey City University in 2004 and moved into the home of my mother in Sidney.

At the time I retired, my mother, Norma (Carr) Collins, was in her 90's and was no longer able to live in her own home. I would take her for rides around Gilbertsville and the roads on which she lived and transversed during her childhood. She would relive her life as we rode along, telling me her stories and life in that world of her childhood. Her memories were rich. After each visit, I wrote her memories in a journal and still intend to place them on record in the future. (Written December 2016)

1889 DIARY OF NELLIE (HELEN) CONVERSE CARR, 1878-1968. Age: 11.12
Copied November 2016 by Alicia Ione Leonard McNutt Pagano, granddaughter of Nellie Carr.

1889 Excelsior Diary. Small maroon book maybe 2" x. 3"

"Nellie N. Converse, Butternuts, NY, December 24, 1888".(Handwritten on Inside cover)

Comments for 1889:

I have copied this diary and all of the following diaries using the same format. The days of the week are included as activities often relate to the day, such as Laundry on Monday, Ironing on Tuesday, Cleaning on Saturday, Church on Sunday. Some names may not be correct as I could not always read the light pencil writing in this diary. Italics are used when a word is not understood or a comment is made. I believe Aunt Leaura in the 1889 dairy may be Aunt Laura and there seem to be two Willies (Willey) and two Charlie's (Charley).

William Carr's family names were: Young (his mother) Brown (his half sisters & brothers)

Nellie's Mother: Emma North. Father: Alvin Converse.

Halbert's may have been aunts and uncles. (Minnie, Frank, John, Cora, Mabel, Anna, Truair and Howard Halbert). They are mentioned often in her diaries along with their children whose names I cannot account for at this time.
